

Public Art in Coral Springs

Tax dollars are not used to purchase public art in Coral Springs. All financing comes from a fee charged to developers who have projects greater than 12,500 square feet. Developers may contribute to the Public Art Fund or purchase an artwork to display on their property in accordance with Chapter 6 of the the City of Coral Springs Land Development Code.

Since 2004, eleven sculptures have been purchased by the City of Coral Springs and are on display throughout the City.

Through the program, developers can opt to contribute to onsite artwork. Two developments have completed this process. Guardian Towers Moon, Sun, Fire by Gustavo Vejarano was installed by H&M Development at the Whispering Woods Center on Wiles Road and Tropical Toss by Kim Radochia by Symphony Builders at Village Green Apartments on Sample Road.
